Hope For Rescue of Crew in Submarine Almost Abandoned

Divers Work in Darkness Trying to Reach Two Objects in Bay

NO TRACE REPORTED

British Craft at Bottom of Channel With 62 Men Aboard

PORTLAND, Eng.—(AP)—Hope for the lives of the men aboard the sunken submarine M-2, soared again Thursday afternoon when a great patch of oil was discovered on the English channel near the spot where she was believed to have sunk.

PORTLAND, England.—(AP)—Divers working in darkness and swirling tides made desperate efforts Wednesday night to reach two objects lying on the floor of Dead Man's bay in the hope that one or the other might be the British submarine M-2.

The mine sweeper Tedworth, equipped with special decompression chambers and the latest appliances for deep sea diving, was suddenly ordered to come from Devonport with extra divers. This gave rise to a suggestion that the M-2, missing since Tuesday morning, had been found, but there was no confirmation from searching divers.

The cables of mine sweepers, searching for the missing submarine with its 62 men—or their bodies—located the objects, the admiralty reported. Divers impelled their lives in repeated descents, but thus far had been unable to reach bottom. Diving was continued through the night.

Despite the intensive search, scarcely a trace had been found on the surface water of oil bubbles or the surface that normally indicated a submarine is lying in the depths below.

The rescue flotilla was concentrated to the west of Portland Bill, famous headland, around which sweep treacherous tides and current. The flotilla was commanded by Admiral C. J. C. Little, the admiral in charge of British submarines.

Wednesday night one of the salvage officers said he had just about given up hope that any of the men would be brought up alive. But he added that much depended on whether the M-2 had been damaged and filled with water. If her hull is whole, he said, there might be enough air to keep the men alive for a few hours more.

Over in France an admiralty office man waiting for the captain of a coasting steamer to come in. It was reported the captain had seen the M-2 had been damaged and filled with water.

They had waited for hours in the fog and rain, crowding the water-front to watch the salvage vessel, but when night fell they went back to their homes. One of them, the wife of the top stoker, had a baby three days ago.

All day long there were the rumors which always rise at times like this. They raised hopes for awhile, but all of them proved false.

Once it was reported that the submarine had been located in 17 fathoms, far enough away from the treacherous Portland current to make the salvage work fairly easy. One newspaper even said there had been tapping on the hull, but the admiralty office said there was no truth in it.

Louisiana to Stop All Highway Work

Repeal of State's Ban on Cotton Planting Also Announced

BATON ROUGE, La.—Political jobholders were wondering whether they stood Wednesday night after Alvin O. King, who followed Huey Long into the governor's office, had announced that funds were low and highway work would have to cease and the personnel be reduced.

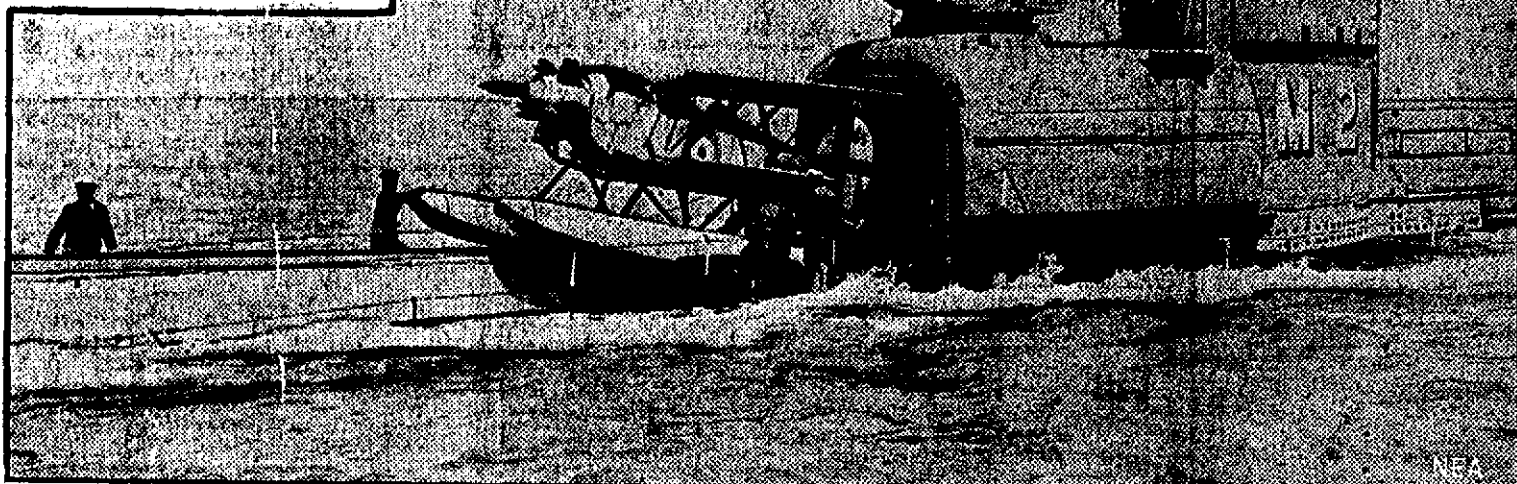

For nearly four years, the army of state employees had been on the increase under the Long road building program but King said they would have to be an immediate halt until now bonds can be sold and that the market is too weak now for a sale.

King said there would be a wholesale exodus of highway employees as the pay roll is too heavy for the money in sight.

He also announced that Long had repealed the cotton planting holiday plan in a proclamation before he went to Washington. The cotton plan was adopted by the state legislature at a special session last summer at the request of Long. It died, however, when other cotton states refused to follow suit.

World's Only Aircraft-Carrying Sub Missing With 60 Aboard

Here is the big British submarine M-2 reported missing in the English channel with a crew of 60 men within its hold. It is the only aircraft-carrying submarine in the world, carrying a small fighting plane in a hangar on its deck. This official British government photo shows the plane being taken from its hangar.

Banker Accused of Fund Manipulation

Luke Lea Notes Used in $25,000 Switch, Court Is Told

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—A young trust officer of the failed Holston Trust Company, charged with manipulating funds, Wednesday how he traced a $25,000 check drawn on the company into the personal bank account of J. B. Ramsey, president of the trust company, and the defunct Holston National Bank.

He was F. Curtis Allen, 28, whose testimony last March before the legislative investigating committee led to the prosecution and subsequent indictment of Ramsey in five cases charging misappropriation of state highway funds deposited in the Holston Trust Company.

Allen testified that Ramsey drew $25,000 from $250,000 state highway funds deposited in the Holston Union National bank to the credit of the trust company, an displaced a $25,000 note of the Knoxville Journal in the files. He said the note was signed by Ramsey as vice president of the Journal Company.

The same date, August 18, 1930, according to the witness, Ramsey deposited $25,000 to his own account in the bank and the next day withdrew it in two $12,500 checks.

The witness said the Journal note was later substituted by a $25,000 note of the Tennessee Publishing Company, publishers of the Nashville Tennessean. "Later," Allen testified, "Ramsey called me to the desk and said officers of the trust company had criticized him for the manner in which he had handled the transactions. He told me he was handling it for Col. Luke Lea."

Colonel Lea at that time was president of the Knoxville Journal Company, a stockholder in the Holston Union National bank and head of the Tennessee Publishing Company.

Allen was rigidly cross examined by W. T. Kernerly, defense attorney.

He admitted he went to the records of the bank on August 19, and found Ramsey had deposited $25,000 to his account the day before.

"Why were you looking up the personal account of your president?" Kernerly asked.

MARSHALL.—Albert Moyle, aged 38, giving his address as Elgin, Ill., was shot and seriously wounded by Sheriff Ray Hogg Wednesday. The shooting occurred about 12:30 p. m. on the highway three miles north of Marshall. Jessie Gregg, 30, was with Moyle and was driving the car.

Sheriff Hogg received a telephone call from Sheriff Silby Johnson of Boone county about 11 a. m. notifying him to watch for a car in which were the alleged robbers of the Luna Lumber Company at Harrison. Sheriff Hogg drove out alone on the Harrison road and met a car that he believed to be the robbers' car. The car stopped and the man injured of the sheriff about the road. Sheriff Hogg pulled open the door and ordered the couple to throw up their hands.

Moyle reached for his revolver in the car door and the sheriff fired. The bullet struck Moyle in the left side of the neck and ranged downward, lodging in the muscle of upper right arm.

The bullet was removed by local doctors. Sheriff Johnson of Boone county arrived in Marshall about 3 p. m. with Mrs. A. Luna, who was in the office of the lumber company when the robbery occurred. She identified Moyle. He also was identified by Roy Harper of Harrison.

Engineers Ready For Levee Work

Improvement in "Sugar Bowl" Area Promised in Few Months

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The House Flood Control Committee Wednesday heard from Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown chief of army engineers that his forces were ready to go to work immediately on improvement of levees on the lower Atchafalaya river to prevent floods in the "sugar bowl" of Louisiana.

The district engineer at New Orleans has approved the project. General Brown told the committee, and it now awaits endorsement by the Mississippi River Commission.

The acute situation in the lower Atchafalaya basin was pointed out by Harry Jacobs, Louisiana state engineer who estimated that the raising of the levees as authorized in the Jadwin flood control plan could be effected in a few months at a cost of about $1,000,000.

Jacobs said emergency work would avert the present danger within 10 days. He predicted that if some emergency steps were not taken the sugar bowl parishes would be inundated within the next month or six weeks.

Shanghai Situation Is Closely Watched By U. S. and Britain

Chinese Prepare Way for Capitulation to Japan Ultimatum

2,000 MARINES LAND

U. S. Marines, British Tommies and French Troops Stand Ready

(By Associated Press)

Japan Thursday occupied the Chinese quarter of Shanghai, landing 200 marines at midnight.

Fighting was reported to have broken out on the edge of the International settlement.

Reports in Japanese circles Thursday said that landing parties from the Japanese ships in the harbor was planned to begin the occupation of Shanghai's Chinese quarters some time Thursday night.

These reports followed China's capitulation to demands originally made upon her, including the cessation of the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods.

This capitulation brought a new demand that the Chinese armed forces stationed about the city be removed and a warning that Japan will act without further warning unless this additional demand is met.

U. S. Silent

United States maintained complete silence on the situation awaiting British reply to a suggestion for joint action either economic or otherwise as a protest against Japanese military actions.

The United States marines stood by at the International settlement and the French troops to defend Shanghai's international settlement in case the Chinese acceptance of the Japanese demands proves unsatisfactory and the city should be bombarded.

40 Japanese ships frown on the city from the harbor.

8,300,000 Jobless, Green Estimates

U. S. Held Only Adequate Relief Agency; Senate Considers Aid Bills

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—An urgent call for direct federal aid to the unemployed was sounded of the American Federation of Labor. He estimated the number out of work at 8,300,000.

"Only one agency—the federal government—can meet the relief problem now that all other resources have been proven inadequate," he said.

"By taxation it can distribute the burden of this year where it can be borne with least injury to our citizenship."

Green said a conservative estimate placed the probable average unemployed throughout 1932 at between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 and that between $3,500,000,000 and $5,700,000,000 will be necessary to feed, clothe and house those out of work "even at bare subsistence levels."

Meanwhile, plans went forward in both branches of Congress for early action on the administration-opposed LaFollette-Costigan measure to appropriate $375,000,000 from the federal Treasury for relief work.

Senator LaFollette awaited a chance to bring up the measure for a Senate vote. Democrats have asked, however, that it go over until Monday to give them opportunity to study the bill. There are reports they are contemplating offering a substitute providing for loans to states to meet unemployment needs.

In the House, the Labor Committee directed a subcommittee headed by Representative Jacobsen, Democrat, Iowa, to begin hearing tomorrow on the LaFollette-Costigan bill. The House bill to appropriate $900,000 for relief also will be considered.

Green said the number out of work has been rising rapidly since October and that, although January and February are usually peak months of unemployment, "relief needs will continue at unprecedented levels throughout 1932."

"With city relief breaking down, with private charity totally unable to meet the needs of the unemployed," he continued, "we are face to face with an unprecedented unemployment crisis."

"Already we are hearing from bankrupt cities and towns reports of unemployment suffering they cannot meet. Some are not even paying their school teachers. Community chests after a valiant effort to collect funds from private sources report their funds are inadequate. This need is four times that of 1929 and their funds only 25 per cent more."

To Wed Again?

Steven Barclay (above), twice married millionaire merchant, sought the company of pretty Ellen Rossiter so often that gossip connecting their names became widespread. Both are important characters in the new serial, "The Dime-a-Dance Girl," which begins Wednesday evening in the Hope Star.

But the same wind that left a path of wreckage resulted in the employment of over 500 men, brought several thousand dollars of tornado insurance into Camden, and an improved business and residential district with expenditure of near $25,000.

Today all the buildings have been reconstructed, or plans for this work have been adopted.

The courthouse probably will be completed by January 1, 1933. Construction work is expected to be begun some time before April 1. In the meantime all the county's business is being transacted in frame structures built around the wrecked courthouse.

Vaults were undamaged in the tornado and roofs have been built over them.

Lemley, Carrigan To Head Campaign Beginning Friday

Red Cross and Associated Charities Ask Help of City and County

YEAR'S ONLY DRIVE

Money Needed Urgently—Citizens Given Two Days to Respond

A campaign for $1,000 to cover the needs of the city and county organizations which have been suffering from lack of funds, will begin Friday morning, under the leadership of Lemley and Carrigan.

The finance committee of the Red Cross and the Associated Charities of Hope expect the fund to be raised Friday and Saturday, completing one quick drive all the money needed for work confronting this section of winter.

To Begin Friday

The campaign was decided on a meeting of the two organizations Thursday morning, and Mr. Lemley and Mr. Carrigan were asked to supervise the canvassing of the city teams will begin their work Friday.

Those attending the financial meeting Thursday were: The Red Cross finance committee, Ralph Robinson, J. A. Davis, W. A. Lewis and C. C. Cooper, D. B. Thompson, chairman of the relief organizations, and the Finance committee, permanent secretary of the Red Cross chapter.

Mr. Lemley and Mr. Carrigan were asked to undertake the drive, a two-day emergency measure to meet a critical situation throughout the city and county.

Money Needed Now

The relief work is not so much a matter of aid as of prompt action, the organizations explained. The $1,000 now being asked for is needed immediately, and once raised should succeed in disposing of the actual necessities of the city and county this year.

The citizens of the city and county are appealed to by both organizations to meet the emergency at once. This is the only charity campaign put before the city this winter, and except for the annual Red Cross roll call, fall is the only public subscription in which citizens will have the opportunity of relieving distressed families throughout this territory.

15 Convicted of Liquor Conspiracy

Government Scores Heavily in Fight on Capone Gangsters

CHICAGO.—(AP)—The government's third major offensive against the once powerful Capone syndicate ended Wednesday with convictions for all but four of the 47 defendants charged with conspiracy as members of its Midwest alcohol division.

Fifteen defendants who remained after pleas of guilty had been entered by their co-defendants were held guilty by a federal court jury of supplying six states with $10,000,000 worth of bootleg liquor annually over a period of five years.

Robert W. Besse of Sterling, formerly state's attorney of Whiteside county, Illinois, several wholesale liquor dealers, still tinders and truck drivers were convicted on government evidence.

Judge Walter C. Lindley immediately sentenced 13 defendants, including Mike Blumberg, known as the "Al Capone of Clinton, Ill." All but Blumberg were given county jail terms up to three months and $500 fines. Blumberg, who distributed thousands of gallons of alcohol west of the Mississippi river and who was convicted in a previous government assault on the Capone organization in a conspiracy trial at Peoria, Ill., was sentenced to two years in the federal prison and fined $1,000. The prison term is to run concurrently with a similar sentence in the Peoria case.

Memories in Keepsakes

BURIED treasure is usually a cache of gold, silver or precious stones. But excavators who were preparing a site for a new art museum in Portland, Ore., the other day turned up treasure of a different kind—some mouldy old chests that had been buried 50 years ago by members of a high school graduating class beneath a tree that the graduates had planted.

When the chests were opened, a revealing light was thrown on the kind of things, valueless in themselves, that people can prize—especially young people.

There were, for instance, a little blue vase, a tiny cup and saucer, a little locket containing a lock of someone's brown hair, a small model of the ship Constitution, a marble miniature horseshoe, a handful of old coins, a newspaper of the year 1882—and so on, through a long list of little trinkets each one of which had its own significance, its own value when the chest was buried 50 years ago.

It isn't hard to imagine just how gladly the people who buried those things would reclaim them now. After half a century the commonest object can take on deep meaning. That locket with its wisp of hair, for instance, what gawky high school lad, prizing his keepsake from the world's sweetest girl, put it there? And where is he now? Did he marry her—or did each forget the other before two more years had passed?

Most of us, probably, have a secret store of odds and ends of that kind, things that would look very odd and grotesque if anyone else saw them, but that we ourselves cherish deeply. There is usually a faded dance program or two, a sheaf of crumbling snapshots—containing, always, pictures of one or two people whose very names we have forgotten—an odd-colored pebble that commemorates some summer day's stroll along a lake, some yellowed theater stubs, and to no one but ourselves would the collection mean anything.

But each of us has to fight his own battle with time, which devours youth and hope; and with our oddments of keepsakes—like those unearthed in Oregon—we keep old memories alive.

Overalls in Church

WHEN a little Methodist church at Trion, Georgia, voted to adopt an official garb of overalls and printed cotton dresses for its Sunday services hereafter, it took a very gracious and an exceedingly literal interpretation of the Golden Rule.

There are many poor people in the church. Probably most of them would like to attend the services in fine clothes. It's a perfectly human desire, and there are congregations, here and there, in which one suspects that that longing to exhibit fine raiment is what really got some of the members into their pews.

But a lot of the people in this Georgia church had to wear overalls or cotton dresses—because they possessed no other clothes.

And the congregation, in voting to make those garments the regular thing for Sunday morning wear, must have had in mind that passage of the Bible in which going into the presence of God in shining raiment is mentioned; for that passage, of course, refers to things of the spirit, not of the flesh, and overalls and cotton dresses can qualify very easily.

The step makes one feel that these people in this small-town church must be both friendly and level-headed. They are going to have, in their not over prosperous church, a sense of fellowship and good understanding that many a cathedral, with stained-glass windows, rhythmic cadences of organ and choral music and many candles has sought and never found.

The story of the widow and her mite has always been one of the best-loved stories in the New Testament. Something of that spirit seems to have prompted this action about the overalls and print dresses. And it may be that the little southern church, where the men wear blue denim and the women wear their third-best gowns, just because they don't want the poorer members to feel badly, will live longer in the memory than some churches that are wonders of masonry and architecture.

For the world, calloused though it sometimes seems, has a habit of appreciating sincerity and humility.

That Finance Corporation

IT IS quite possible that historians a few years from now will date the beginning of the end of the present depression from the establishment of the Reconstruction Corporation.

"Tight money," always a phenomenon of hard times, has seldom been more in evidence than it has in the past year. It has been responsible for a tremendous amount of industrial stagnation. The new credit facilities now made available by the government should go a long way toward restoring normal conditions in business.

Of course, the job can't be done overnight, and it would be foolish to look for a return of prosperity by next month. But there is a pretty general belief that an extremely important step forward has been taken, and that from now on a slow but steady upward tendency will be evident.

Do You Remember

George Sander's old black mare got to feeling gay Wednesday afternoon, and while George was collecting water tax on Main street, she ran down the street about two blocks to the City Drug Store, where she is usually hitched when George is not riding her. When she reached the hitching post in front of the store, she was going so fast that the brakes wouldn't work, and she began to slide. When she did stop her body was half way through the front door. She scrambled to her feet, with her body frame around her neck and backed inside, where she waited for George to start another round of collections.

The oak tree never quite fits its place. To talk about a neighbor's care. A thing of majesty and grace. Whose leafy arms seem raised in prayer. It stands two hundred years or more. Against the storms of winter stout. While man is broken down before. The sands of seventy years run out. Patient, untroubled and serene. A tree with age in splendor grows. Because on it no grief has been. Such as the frosted mortal knows. Poor man must roam this world afar. And give his strength to many needs. Pride, pomp and place and pity are. Forever spurring him to deeds. The span of mortal life is brief. Yet better 'tis to suffer grief. To weary oft at duty's call. To wear our strength and courage out. Against the tides of human fears. Than live and never ask about. The cause of sorrow's blinding tears. —Selected.

WHEN THE PAPER DOESN'T COME

My father says the paper he reads ain't got up right. He finds a lot of fault, he does, perusing it all night. He says there ain't a single thing in it worth while to read. And that it doesn't print the kind of stuff the people need. He takes it aside and says it's strictly on the bum. But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

He reads about the wedding and he snorts like all get out. He reads the social doin's with a most derisive shout. He says they make the paper for the women folks alone. He'll read about the parties and he'll fume and fret and groan; He says of information it doesn't have a crumb. But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

He's always first to grab it and he reads it plumb clean through. He doesn't miss an item or a want ad—this is true. He says they don't know what we want, the darn newspapers guys.

I'm going to take a day sometime and go on 'em put 'em wise. Sometimes it seems as though they must be blind, deaf and dumb; But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come. —Nashville Democrat

Holmes—50 Years a Judge

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES

Do You Know That—

Oliver Wendell Holmes, who resigned from the supreme court of the United States at the age of 90, after 50 years as a judge, 29 of which were spent on the Nation's highest tribunal.

Student at Harvard under Ralph Waldo Emerson, was graduated at 20, year the Civil War broke out, was commissioned a lieutenant in a Massachusetts infantry regiment, was wounded in the breast, neck and foot at Ball's Bluff, Antietam and Fredericksburg and later became a colonel. That for many years his secretaries have always been young Harvard students.

That one critic called him "the wisest man now speaking and writing the English language." That the retiring justice once protested that he was wasting too much time posing for a portrait painter; his wife promptly told the artist to take all the time he needed, saying "If the justice were not posing for you he would be off in a corner reading French novels."

That Mr. Holmes is extremely unsparing, he lives quietly, but is known for his fighting qualities; that he once said, "After all, the place for a man who is complete in all his powers is in the fight."

That after recovering from his wounds in the Civil War, Mr. Holmes took up law practice and became a professor in Harvard law school, was named to the Massachusetts supreme court in 1882 and became its chief justice in 1899.

That he attracted the attention of President Roosevelt, who appointed him to the supreme court in 1902, by a decision in a picketing case in which Mr. Holmes commented whimsically on the contention that it could be unlawful for people to combine in an act that any one of them could do lawfully as an individual.

That Mr. Holmes was born in Boston on March 8, 1841, the son of the late Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, poet and essayist; that he married Miss Fanny Dixwell of Cambridge, in 1872, and they were famed for their marital happiness until her death three years ago.

"Sooky" Showing at Local Theatre

Exceptional Cast Secured for Screening of This Production

"Sooky" and "Sooky" those wistful tales of Shantytown, who jumped from the cartoon pen of Percy Crosby to create one of the highest of all talkie hits, are reunited in the person of Hollywooded Jackie Cooper and whimsical brunettes Robert Coogan in a Paramount sequel titled "Sooky".

Reviewing a picture of this type, with all the heartache of realism and all the sublime happiness of childhood hope, courage and optimism, is not something to be done adequately with an unemotional thing like a type-writer.

If you liked "Sooky," you can't be disappointed in "Sooky." The same producers, the same director, the same story staff, re-associate Crosby with Norman Taurog, to present seventy minutes of entertainment in the fullest sense of the word.

Nor are young Cooper and Coogan the only members of the original cast to project their characterizations in new experiences. Willard Robertson, Ed Bennett, Helen Jerome Eddy, Kild Oliver and these ebullient past, Jackie Searl, renew the parts they created in "Sooky" for "Sooky."

Dogs, trinkets, mothers and fathers are treated with typical boyhood earnestness in the new story, which revolves mainly about the efforts of "General" Skippy, and "Sooky," his army, to outdo the highest Boone Boys, a cadet corps recruited from a neighborhood more attractive than Shantytown. Pathos and humor are discreetly mixed, building up to a strong and sympathetic climax.

"Sooky" is now showing at the Seenger Theatre.

Story of Murder Declared Untrue

Perry County Mountaineer Who Confessed Repudiates Statements

PERRYVILLE.—The mountaineer who told a tale of a year-old murder to Chief James A. Piccock of the Little Rock Detective Bureau last Saturday swore there was no truth to his story Wednesday as he stood on the bank of Fourche river, whither he had led searchers for the body of the victim.

"There ain't nothing to it," said Willie Lee McElroy, after searchers, led by Sheriff Oscar Brazil, had failed to find the body of Woodson Stephens, farmer, in the swollen waters of the Fourche river.

Stephens has been missing since November, 1930, McElroy, arrested on suspicion by Sheriff Brazil, was taken to Little Rock for questioning. He confessed that he had witnessed the killing of Stephens in November, 1930, on the bank of Fourche river, and named Grover Hall, aged 45, as the slayer.

He said Stephens and Hall had quarreled when they met during a squirrel hunt in the river bottoms and that Hall shot and killed Stephens.

Then, McElroy related, Hall forced him to assist in weighting the body with stones and rolling it into a deep part of the river. He promised to lead officers to the spot.

After a two-day delay, during which Hall was arrested and lodged in the Morrilton jail, McElroy guided the sheriff and his men to the spot where the crime was committed. The river was at high stage and it was necessary to ferry across back water once and to ride mules across another overflowed place before they reached the spot described by McElroy.

The water there was several feet deeper than usual, and the current was swift, but an attempt was made to drag the spot. No trace of the body was found, and McElroy finally declared:

"This is the place, but there ain't nothing to the story. It wasn't so."

The searchers returned and McElroy was returned to the Perry county jail. Hall will be brought back to Perryville for arraignment.

Nashville Truck Growers Assemble

Preparation Made for 1932 Crops. Advised Against Planting Radishes

(From the Nashville News)

The annual meeting of the Nashville Truck Growers Association was held in the Howard county court house last week. Truck raisers in that neighborhood were very enthusiastic over the outlook for truck crops in 1932.

H. M. Stephens of Elexton, who is sales agent for the association, was the principal speaker at the meeting, and talked along the lines of economy in production. He advised the growers not to branch out in their crops this year and recommended that only two crops be planted extensively. These two crops are canteloupes and tomatoes he says, because they are both food crops and the indications are that the market will be fair.

Mr. Stephens urged the growers to keep a sufficient number of hogs to use the waste from the crops, thereby utilizing this waste to produce food for home consumption. He also urged every one to grow everything possible for use at home for food and feed. He says that the outlook for radishes is not good because of the heavy acreage in other sections of the country, and advises against planting.

Mr. Bert Johnson is endeavoring to get up an acreage of strawberries in the Nashville and Bingen neighborhood.

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES"

THE QUEEN OF COLLEENS

They scoured Ireland—the FOX Ricker folk—for a winsome colleen to play opposite that great Irish tenor in "Song O' My Heart." And whom should they find but Maureen O'Sullivan! She arrived dressed as a waif—but her trunk was full of snappy Paris clothes. Now's that for Irish blarney! She's now going over big in BIG PATHE'S "THE BIG SHOT." It didn't take her long to pick LUCKIES, and she's been smoking them a year and a half. The only reward for her statement was our friendly "Top O' the morning, Maureen!"

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES is that they are so mild and cause no irritation to my throat. Your new Celophane wrapper is marvelous. Just a pull of the tab and there are the LUCKIES."
